

Celebrating Diversity Nominations

The Presidential Commission on Race and Tulane Values is focused on making Tulane University a racially diverse, inclusive community, one in which all students learn the Tulane values of respect and equality.

Most of the buildings, spaces and programs at Tulane have historically been named in recognition of donors or members of the university or administration. Those recognized have not fully represented the wide range of individuals who have contributed to the making of this academic community over time. Nor does this history of campus recognition reflect the multicultural, inclusive and global interests that the university appreciates at the dawn of the 21st century.

The Committee on Campus Recognition, a sub-committee of the President's Commission on Race and Tulane Values, has developed this form to encourage our community to nominate diverse individuals who have contributed or are currently contributing to Tulane. Please help us celebrate past and current diversity contributions on campus by submitting a specific idea or person for recognition. *

Suggestion Boxes for the submission of ideas in a non-electronic form — handwriting or typing on paper — are located at the welcome desk in the Lavin-Bernick Center. (link to PDF form)

*all submissions will be vetted by the Committee on Campus Recognition
